

New Instructional Modes

A new course mode, and several updated modes, go into effect fall semester 2026, and students will see the updated modes when they register for fall courses in LionPATH in spring 2026. Some instructional modes remain unchanged.

NEW OR UPDATED INSTRUCTIONAL MODES

(RS) Remote Synchronous UPDATED MODE	Class meets remotely at days/times listed. 100% of the class is taught remotely synchronously. To manage their own absences due to illness or other unavoidable circumstances, for professional travel, or for pedagogical reasons, instructors can offer up to 7% of a Remote Synchronous class asynchronously. ¹
(RA) Remote Asynchronous	Class meets remotely. 100% of the class is taught remotely asynchronously.
(RB) Remote Blended	Class meets 100% remotely. The class is intentionally taught remotely combining asynchronous and synchronous (at days/times listed) instruction.
(H7) In person 1–25%; 75–99% Remote UPDATED MODE	Class meets in person and remotely. 75–99% of the class is taught remotely synchronously or asynchronously, which may include required in person assessments or evaluations. This low-residency mode is considered remote instruction. ²
(H5) In Person 26–49%; 51–74% Remote	Class meets in person and remotely. 51–74% of the class is taught remotely synchronously or asynchronously.
(H2) In Person 50–75%; 25–50% Remote	Class meets in person and remotely. 25–50% of the class is taught remotely synchronously or asynchronously.
(H1) In Person 76–92%; 8–24% Remote NEW MODE	Class meets predominantly in person. 8–24% of the class is taught remotely synchronously or asynchronously.
(P) In Person up to 7% Remote UPDATED MODE	Class meets in person at days/times listed. To manage their own absences due to illness or other unavoidable circumstances, for professional travel, or for pedagogical reasons, instructors can offer up to 7% of an in-person class remotely (synchronously or asynchronously). ¹
(VR) Video-Receiving UPDATED MODE	Shared class that a campus receives at days/times listed. 100% of the class is taught remotely synchronously. To manage their own absences due to illness or other unavoidable circumstances, for professional travel, or for pedagogical reasons, instructors can offer up to 7% of a Video-Receiving class asynchronously. ¹ Only for the Digital Learning Cooperative (DLC).
(DE) Distance Education	Used only by the law school

² Some student populations (e.g., international students) have limitations on the number of remote courses they can take in a semester. Further, when students' schedules comprise only remote courses, the institution assumes the obligation to provide student services equivalent to what are available for residential students, an obligation normally met by World Campus.
